

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction: Cholera and the Colonial State in Urban Environments	3
Part I. First Encounters
1. Strategies of Treatment: Madras, 1818–1833	21
2. Strategies of Control: Quebec City, 1832–1834	53
Part II. Integrating Sanitation
3. Frequent Visitations: Quebec City, 1840–1854	101
4. The Advent of Sanitarianism: Madras, 1840–1857	130
5. Sanitary Consensus at Last: Madras, 1858–1883	162
Part III. Bacteriology and the Promise of Clarity
6. Finding the Comma Bacillus: Bacteriology in Madras and Quebec City, 1865–1910	201
Conclusion: The Colonial State and the Elusive Consensus Regarding Cholera	241
Notes	259
Bibliography	299
Index	315