

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments vii

INTRODUCTION

From the Beginning: Human History Theories in Nineteenth-Century British Sciences 1

EFRAM SERA-SHRIAR

CHAPTER 1

Contemporaries of the Cave Bear and the Woolly Rhinoceros:
Historicizing Prehistoric Humans and Extinct Beasts, 1859–1914 14

CHRIS MANIAS

CHAPTER 2

Of Rocks and “Men”: The Cosmogony of John William Dawson 44

NANNA KATRINE LÜDERS KAALUND

CHAPTER 3

Historicizing Belief: E. B. Tylor, Primitive Culture, and the Evolution of Religion 68

EFRAM SERA-SHRIAR

CHAPTER 4

The History of the “Red Man”: William Bollaert and the Indigenous People of the Americas 91

MAURIZIO ESPOSITO AND ABIGAIL NIEVES DELGADO

CHAPTER 5

Historicizing Humans in Colonial India 113

THOMAS SIMPSON

CHAPTER 6

How and Why Darwin Got Emotional about Race 138

GREGORY RADICK

CHAPTER 7

The Comparative Method in “Shallow Time”: Walter Scott,
Thomas Carlyle, and Francis Galton 172

HELEN KINGSTONE

CHAPTER 8

The Future Evolution of “Man” 193

IAN HESKETH

AFTERWORD

Historiographical Reflections on the Historicization of Humans in Nineteenth-Century British Sciences 218

THEODORE KODITSCHER

Notes 231

Bibliography 285

List of Contributors 315

Index 319