

CONTENTS

	Acknowledgments	vii
1	Legislative Diffusion: Can the U.S. Congress Be a Source? Timothy J. Power and Nicol C. Rae	1
2	Reinstitutionalizing the British House of Commons: How Relevant Is the Congressional Model? Nicol C. Rae	15
3	So Close, and Yet So Far: Congressional Influences on Canadian Legislatures Louis Massicotte	34
4	Recorded Voting and Accountability in the United States and Latin American Legislatures John M. Carey	54
5	Limits on Exporting the U.S. Congress Model to Latin America Scott Morgenstern	82
6	The Influence of U.S. Congressional Hearings on Committee Procedure in the German Bundestag Gerhard Loewenberg	102
7	The U.S. Congress's Modest Influence on the Legislatures of Central and Eastern Europe John R. Hibbing and Samuel C. Patterson	119
8	The Environmental Determinants of Legislative Structure: A Comparison of the U.S. House of Representatives and the European Parliament Amie Kreppel	137

9	Ballot Structures and Legislative Behavior: Changing Role Orientations via Electoral Reform Pippa Norris	157
10	Barriers and Carriers: Legislative Diffusion and the Selective Imitation of Congress Timothy J. Power and Nicol C. Rae	185
	Notes	197
	Bibliography	209
	Contributors	227
	Index	231