

Contents

Acknowledgments

vii

Introduction

The History of Composition Is the History of Its People

1

1. Her History Matters

The United States Normal School and the Roots of Women's Public Education

19

2. In Her Own Words

The Yearling and First-Year Writing, 1948–51

53

3. Revisionist History
General Education Reform from Harvard University to the Woman's College, 1943–56	92
4. The Double-Helix of Creative/Composition
Randall Jarrell, May Bush, and the Politics of Writing Programs, 1947–63	149
5. What's in a Name?
Women's Writing Histories and Archival Research in Composition Studies	191
Notes	213
Works Cited	233
Index	249