

Contents

Acknowledgments	vi
Introduction	I
Crime as a Critical Instrument	3
The “Stories” of the Corpus Delicti	6
I. From Transgression to Crime	9
The Subjects of the Liberal State: Stories of Education and Marriage	11
The Patricians and Their Autobiographical Stories of Education	13
The Dandies and Their Marriage Stories	27
Physics Exam Stories: Insanity, Simulation, and Crime at the Colegio Nacional de Buenos Aires	48
II. The Frontier of Crime	59
Transmutation Operation Stories	61
The Crime of the Artist: Portrait Stories	74
Coda	76
III. The Moreiras	81
Argentine Stories	83
IV. The History of a Best-Seller: From Anarchism to Peronism	111
A Literary Genealogy “in Crime” by Way of the Story of the Submission of the First Manuscript to the Master	113
V. Women Who Kill	123
VI. Stories of Truth and Stories of Jews	141
Stories of Truth	143
Stories of Jews	154
Conclusion	159
The Crime Story of the Very Much Read	161
Notes	171
Index	391