

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
Preamble: Porfirio Díaz's Paradox	xi
Introduction	1
PART I. BANDITRY, SELF-FASHIONING, AND THE QUEST FOR LEGITIMACY	17
1. Speculum Latronis : On Villa's Retrato autobiográfico	19
2. Hugo Chávez, Maisanta, and the Construction of an Insurgent Lineage	42
PART II. BANDITRY AND THE EPIC OF THE NATION	63
3. The Burning Plains: On Las lanzas coloradas	65
4. "Bodies for the Gallows": On ¡Vámonos con Pancho Villa!	86
5. The Andean Western: On Cuentos andinos	104
6. Borges and the Melancholic Cultor del Coraje	122

PART III. BANDITRY AND THE LATIN AMERICAN LEFT	141
7. Dangerous Illusions and Shining Utopias: On Seara Vermelha	143
8. The Heart of Darkness: On José Revueltas	170
PART IV. BANDITRY AND THE DILEMMAS OF LITERATURE	189
9. Borges and Moreira: Inglorious Bastards	191
10. Language, the Devil, and the (Out)law: On Grande Sertão: Veredas	211
11. An Abundance of Hats and a Scarcity of Heads: On La guerra del fin del mundo	227
12. Banditry, Neoliberalism, and the Dilemmas of Literature: On Plata quemada	245
13. What Is a Bandit?	261
Notes	277
Works Cited	340
Index	379