

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments xi

Introduction: Enlivening Early Rhetorical Uptake alongside Others xv

PART 1: SITUATING A RESPONSIVE RHETORICAL ART

Chapter 1: Tensions and Challenges Inherent in the Early Uptake of Public Life 5

Chapter 2: Defining a Responsive Rhetorical Art 13

PART 2: ACTORS TAKING UP A RESPONSIVE RHETORICAL ART

Chapter 3: A Rhetorical Approach to Publicly Responsive Research
Methods 37

Chapter 4: Community Actors Taking Up a Responsive Rhetorical Art 47

Chapter 5: Supporting Rhetoricity in the Face of a Stalled Project 61

PART 3: A RESPONSIVE RHETORICAL ART: WHY NOW?

Chapter 6: Gambian American College Activists Conjure an Alternative to Aid-to-Africa Discourse 89

Elenore Long, Nyillan Fye, and John Jarvis

Chapter 7: Disciplinary Arguments That Test a Responsive Rhetorical Art 111

PART 4: EDUCATORS HELPING STUDENTS AND INSTITUTIONS SUPPORT A RESPONSIVE RHETORICAL ART

Chapter 8: Can We Make Inquiry Professional? Responsive Arts and the Rhetorical Education of Future Public Workers 139

Chapter 9: The Nipmuck Chaubunagungamaug People Do Exist:
Imagining the What Next—An Experimental Alternative to Evidentiary Legal Discourse 160

Elenore Long, John Jarvis, and D. Deerheart Shaughnessy

Chapter 10: Untangling Empowerment Knots: Tooling a Responsive Rhetoric 185

Elenore Long, Roda Nyapuot Kuek, and Jennifer Clifton

PART 5: A PRACTICAL GUIDE

Chapter 11: Enacting a Responsive Rhetorical Art 219

Appendix 1: Phase 1: Hillary's Inquiry into Institutional Logics 239

Appendix 2: Sample What-if Module for Interns' Website 243

Notes 245

Works Cited 261

Index 283