

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments

ix

PROLOGUE

Imperial Bodies in the Museum

xi

INTRODUCTION

Medicine and Empire in London

3

PART I. Disease, Environment, and the Ex-colonial at Home 31

CHAPTER 1

The Tropical Invalid's Liver:
Climate, Health, and Reacclimatization

35

CHAPTER 2

The "Indian Insane's" Brain:
Making Sunstroke Insanity

65

PART II. Networks, Mobility, and Knowing Medicine at a Distance 99

CHAPTER 3

Empire of the Eye:
Race, Expertise, and the (Im)Mobilities of Cataract Surgery

103

CHAPTER 4

"Something in his blood":
Patrick Manson's Networks of Tropical Disease

136

CONCLUSION

The Cosmopolitanism of Imperial Disease

174

Notes

187

Bibliography

213

Index

249