

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction: Working Women in(to) Rhetorical History 3

JESSICA ENOCH AND DAVID GOLD

1. Republicanism, Religiosity, and the Rhetoric of Women's Labor
Reform in Lowell, Massachusetts, 1830–1850 17

AMY J. WAN

2. From Slave to Seamstress: Elizabeth Keckley's Rhetoric of Emotional Labor 31

PATTY WILDE

3. Louisa May Alcott's Work: A New True Working Woman 42

NANCY MYERS

4. "Opulent Friendships," Rhetorical Emulation, and Belletristic
Instruction at Leache-Wood Seminary 56

PAMELA VANHAITSMA

5. Resituating Rhetorical Failure: The Case of Nineteenth-Century
Metallurgist Carrie Everson 69

SARAH HALLENBECK

6. Professional Proof: Arguing for Women Photographers at the
Fin de Siècle 84
KRISTIE S. FLECKENSTEIN
7. Making Use of the Mundane: The Women's Trade Union League's
Fight to Give Working Women a Voice 102
MARYBETH PODER
8. Figuring Vice: Sex, Women, and Work in Kate Waller Barrett's
Exhibitionist Rhetoric 116
HEATHER BROOK ADAMS AND JASON BARRETT-FOX
9. Bodies of Praise: Epideictic Figures in the Independent Woman
130
RISA APPLGARTH
10. To Labor with Dignity: Alberta Hunter's Respectability and Resistance Rhetoric 144
CORETTA M. PITTMAN
11. Profiting from Rhetorical Domesticity: Fashion Magnate Nell
Donnelly Reed's Discursive Seams, 1916–1956 158
JANE GREER

12. Babe Didrikson Zaharias’s Rhetorical Branding: When It’s Not Enough to Be the World’s Greatest Woman Athlete	172
	LISA J. SHAVER
13. In Rosie’s Shadow: World War II Recruitment Rhetoric and Women’s Work in Public Memory	186
	MICHELLE SMITH
14. “Other Peoples’ Kitchens”: Invisible Labor and Militant Voice during the Early Cold War	209
	JENNIFER KEOHANE
15. Gossard Girls Are Good Girls: Labor Activism at a 1949 Garment Factory Strike	224
	CARLY S. WOODS AND KRISTEN LUCAS
Notes	239
Works Cited	251
Contributors	277
Index	283