

CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	ix
INTRODUCTION	3
PART I Rethinking the Origins of Nuclear Transplantation
1 Beyond Spemann’s “Fantastical” Experiment	17
2 Making the Technique Work for Cancer	54
PART II The Circulation of Nuclear Transplantation in the 1950s and 1960s
3 A Focus on Potency	91
4 New Uses for Nuclear Transplantation in Practice and Imagination	125
PART III The Construction of Nuclear Transplantation as a Bioethical Problem
5 Nuclear Transplantation and Human Cloning in the 1960s	163
6 Bioethics and the Biological Revolution	195
CONCLUSION	232
NOTES	239
BIBLIOGRAPHY	267
INDEX	289