

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments

xi

Introduction | Ian Hesketh

3

PART I: ORIGIN STORIES

ONE

Imagining the Darwinian Revolution
in the Nineteenth Century | Ian Hesketh

21

TWO

The “Greatest Living Philosopher” and the Useful Biologist:
How Spencer and Darwin Viewed Each Other’s Contributions to Evolutionary Theory | Bernard Lightman

37

THREE

The Darwinism of the X Club | Ruth Barton

58

FOUR

“A Monkey into a Man”:
Thomas Henry Huxley, Benjamin Waterhouse Hawkins,
and the Making of an Evolutionary Icon | Gowan Dawson

80

PART II: THE POLITICS OF DARWINISM

FIVE

The Politics of the Darwinian Revolution | Piers J. Hale

103

SIX

“This Great Principle of the Continuity of Phenomena”:
Edward Aveling on the Evolutionism of Darwin and Marx | Joel Barnes

121

SEVEN

Darwinism and Historiography:
What Is Excluded? | Sarah A. Qidwai

137

EIGHT

Darwinism and Neo-Darwinism in Recent Colloquial Science | Jamie Freestone

151

PART III: EVOLUTION'S IMAGINED PASTS

NINE

Darwin of the Mind: Freud's Darwinian Image | Henry-James Meiring

171

TEN

R. A. Fisher and the Scientific Past: From the History of the Darwinian
Revolution to a Darwinian Revolution in History | Alex Aylward

188

ELEVEN

Indirect Descent: Darwin's Legacy in Twentieth-Century Paleoanthropology | Emily Kern

204

TWELVE

French Naturalists versus Darwinian Specialists: Albert Vandel
and Pierre-Paul Grassé's "True" Synthesis | Emily Herring

218

THIRTEEN

The Rise of Darwinian Literalism | Erika Lorraine Milam

235

Coda | Ian Hesketh

251

Notes

259

Selected Bibliography

309

Contributors

319

Index

323