

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction: Toward a New Energy History STEPHEN G. GROSS AND ANDREW NEEDHAM	3
 PART I. THE RISE OF OIL AND THE TRANSFORMATION OF COAL: CREATION, DESTRUCTION, AND REINVENTION
1. The Oil from Our Soil: French Alcohol Fuel versus Foreign Oil, 1918–1957 JOSEPH BOHLING	33
2. The Politics of Creative Destruction: West German Hard Coal and the Postwar Oil Transition STEPHEN G. GROSS	48
3. Accounting the Dead: The Moral Economy of the Coal-Fired Social Contract TRISH KAHLE	62
4. Hard Hat Cowboys: Energy Workers and Coalfield Capitalism in the Anthropocene RYAN DRISKELL TATE	76
 PART II. OIL TRANSITION IN CRISIS: THE 1970S
5. American Politics and Energy Transitions in the 1970s VICTOR MCFARLAND	95
6. The Decade of the “Energy Transition”: A Critical Review of the Global Energy Debates of the 1970s DUCCIO BASOSI	107

7.	Reversing the Transition from Coal to Oil?: The International Energy Agency and the Western Industrialized Countries' Restructuring of Energy Supply in the 1970s	119
	HENNING TÜRK
8.	From State to Market: A Transition in the Economics of Energy Resource Conservation	131
	THOMAS TURNBULL
PART III. A STALLED TRANSITION? NUCLEAR ENERGY'S DILEMMAS AND POSSIBILITIES
9.	Nuclear Energy and the Dream of Independence: The Case of Eastern Europe	157
	SONJA D. SCHMID
10.	Contamination without Representation: Fetal Citizenship and Atomic Power in the Postwar United States	168
	NATASHA ZARETSKY
11.	The Rise of Counterexpertise and the Anti-Nuclear Power Movement in West Germany	182
	DOLORES L. AUGUSTINE
PART IV. THE TRANSITION OFF FOSSIL FUELS: CHALLENGES AND POSSIBILITIES
12.	A Future Foreseen and Transition Delayed: Big Oil and Global Warming, 1959–1986	203
	BENJAMIN FRANTA
13.	Renewable Energies in the United Kingdom and the Federal Republic of Germany, 1970s–1990s: Discourses, Contexts, and Policies	220
	EVA OBERLOSKAMP
	Notes	235
	Contributors	317
	Index	321